"SLEIGH RIDE" DOPE PROVES TO BE MOLASSES

(International News Service.) San Francisco, June 13.—Frank Silva, a man on the steamship San Pedro, chucked with ease after trading his $18 watch for a large can of "dope," which was confidentially exhibited to him by an innkeeper in Chinatown. The can of opium would be worth at least $150 in the San Francisco "market." When the vessel reached port here Silva walked down the gangplank with the valuable "dope" secreted in two cans, one tied to each leg beneath his roomy trousers. The customs inspector noticed the bulging ankles and a search revealed the two cans. The opium was taken to the government laboratory and carefully analyzed by a government chemist. He pronounced it—molasses.

Do orders have been sent out by the department of justice to United States attorneys throughout the country to report instances of disloyalty on the part of naturalized citizens.

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

(International News Service.) Cincinnati.—Because the telephone directory here has classified attorneys-at-law and attorneys separately, the question has arisen whether there is any real distinction between the terms. Lawyers here insist there is no difference. One attorney declared error on the part of the printer is responsible for the two classifications.

GUINERS WORKING UNDER GAS ATTACK

In the present attempts of the Huns to pierce the allied line with their powerful thrusts, the allied gunners have been playing a stellar role. Though gas attacks are constantly being employed by the Germans, the gunners, with the aid of their masks, have stuck to their posts, working at times for four hours at a stretch under heavy gas bombardments, being relieved only when wounded and carried behind the lines. Note the camouflaged protection overhead to hide them from any aerial attacks.

FINE WEATHER PROSPECTS GIVE BEARS ADVANTAGE

Chicago, June 13.—Fine weather and prospects that it would continue during at least the next two days gave an advantage today to the bears in corn. Opening prices, which ranged from 1/2 to 3/4 lower, with July 1.44 1/4-1.44 1/2 and August 1.46, were followed by a material further setback. Oats dropped with corn. After opening 5/16% off, with July 70 3/4-71 1/4, the market underwent an additional sag. Provisions sympathized with the weakness of grain. Besides, liberal receipts of hogs counted as a depressing factor. Prices closed heavy, 1 1/2% net lower, with July 1.43 1/4-1.43 1/2 and August 1.45 1/4.

She's Out to Change Chinese Attitude Toward Womenfolk

ALICE LEE

There is something new under the sun—a Chinese motion picture actress. And she proposes to do something new—reform Chinese notions of the proper attitude to women. She is Alice Lee, and when not acting, is busy studying the whole motion picture game. "When I go back to China I will take with me," says she, "some thousands of feet of film showing the way American men treat American women. Then I am going to take moving pictures depicting the life of the Chinese women. After that I will show both pictures and let my countrymen draw their own conclusion. Maybe they will stop considering a son a blessing and a daughter a curse, as they do now."

Age No Handicap to Couple From Alabama

He is within five years of the half century mark along his life's journey. She, many years younger, is married and has a little son, aged 4. He is also said to be bound by matrimonial ties to a wife at Huntsville, Ala.

The wide difference in their ages proved no handicap when they parted from Huntsville and came to this city a few short weeks ago.

A cruel fate has brought them to grief, for, on Thursday morning, Detective Marion Perkins and W. C. Smith saw fit to register them at police headquarters on charges of being fugitives from Huntsville, where they are wanted on charges of desertion. She gave her name as Ola Riddle and he registered as J. W. Houston, although it is charged that his real name is Vander.

They are due to go back to the Alabama city Thursday afternoon in custody of Chief of Police Gardner, of Huntsville.

Her husband is responsible for their apprehension. Information obtained from the plain clothesmen is that Mrs. Riddle and Houston have been living on Cedar street as man and wife. Her little boy is said to have been with them. Prior to coming here Houston was a clerk in a grocery store. Mrs. Riddle's husband works in a boiler shop. During their stay here Houston obtained work at a local factory.

WOULD STIFLE DEBATE, OBJECTS MICHIGAN SOLON

(Associated Press.) Washington, June 13.—Under agreement to vote at 4 o'clock this afternoon, the senate resumed consideration of the resolution offered by Senator Underwood, of Alabama, to incorporate in the senate rules a provision limiting debate during the war.

Sherman Asserts Proposal Is in Preparation for Treaty to Be Submitted Soon.

(Associated Press.) Washington, June 13.—Under agreement to vote at 4 o'clock this afternoon, the senate resumed consideration of the resolution offered by Senator Underwood, of Alabama, to incorporate in the senate rules a provision limiting debate during the war. The original resolution provided for but an hour's debate. Senator Underwood yesterday accepted a substitute rule offered by Senator Cummins, of Iowa. Despite strong opposition to the resolution from the republican side, its supporters were confident it would be adopted.

"President Wilson has had nothing whatever to do with the initiation of this rule, so far as I know," declared Senator Underwood in answer to Senator Sherman, of Illinois, who charged the president "had commanded his senators" to pass the rule.

President's Attitude.

Senator Underwood said the president did not wish to interfere with the business of the senate, but as an outsider was heartily in accord with the proposed rule. Senator Townsend, of Michigan, opposed the rule, saying it would stifle debate, and that it was for the purpose of beginning an attack on the open forum. Questions that involve the life of the country are to come before the senate, declared Senator Townsend, arguing that limited debate would be a disaster. "Since the president was unwilling to interfere with the senate," said Senator Townsend, "and because of no demand of necessity for closure here it is most difficult for me to understand how the three members of a subcommittee thought of this rule."

In the former sector our line has been advanced a short distance with little cost and a number of prisoners taken. In the latter area the French troops improved their positions in the neighborhood of the wood and captured thirty prisoners.

GERMANY OVERRUN BY CRIMINAL CLASS

Robbers Terrorize Country. Police, Depleted by Army Drain, Are Powerless.

(Newspaper Enterprise Association.) Paris.—Amazing facts concerning the unprecedented outbreak of crime among civilians in Germany are gradually coming to light despite the efforts of the Hun authorities to suppress them. It is now possible to quote the actual facts of the lawless wave from the German press itself, as revealed in copies just made available. That juvenile crime in a typical industrial district of Germany has increased 600 per cent. during the war, that the number of thefts in Berlin are averaging 300 a day, and that many cities at night are terrorized by armed bands of robbers, are among the facts shown by German newspapers. This orgy of violence and pillage is all the more startling because of the reputation which the Germans had claimed, before the war, of being a law-abiding people. It seems that the precedent set by the Prussians in their assault upon Belgium and France has been used as a model by the civilian populace, and that the large-scale "raid" against the Prussians in their conquered territory is now being followed on a smaller scale by the women and children in Germany itself.

Prisoners Fill Jails.

According to the Deutsche Tages Zeitung of April 15, 1918, it was decided in Berlin 26 a report by Prosecutor Plaszke to the Association for the Betterment of Prisoners that the jails, which were practically empty in 1914, are now crammed with prisoners, and that women and children under 18 form the greater proportion of all persons convicted of crime.

The Reichsliche-Westfälische Zeitung of April 23 says:

"Among the consequences of this long war, which if they are easily accounted for are none the less profoundly deplorable, may be cited the great increase of child crime. In a conference recently held at Hamm, statistics on this subject were given which reveal a really frightful state of affairs. From these documents it appears that the number of convictions of young people made by the lower court in the judicial district of Arnsberg was 85 for the first quarter of 1916, 114 in 1916, 136 in 1917, and 197 in 1918. In the district of Bielefeld, the number leaped in the same period from 177 to 507. In the district of Bochum the figures were respectively 685 and 2,069.

Increases 600 Per Cent.

"The figures are all the more alarming if the whole period of the war is taken into consideration. In the district of the superior court of Hamm the number of convictions of young people was, in 1914, 4,227; in 1915, 5,184; in 1916, 6,587, and for 1917, 25,000. Juvenile crime has thus increased 600 per cent. in four years of war!" The nature of the crimes reflects the conditions of misery and food shortage in the central empire. Boys and girls, often organized in bands, plunder clothing stores, steal food from shops and private homes, hold up passers-by at night, and often carry a small run of terror of the quarters where they operate. The police are powerless because so many of them have been called to the colors.

Vienna Also Powerless.

German papers tell of various efforts being made by the authorities to handle the crime problem, such as the patrolling of the streets at night by military police, the better lighting of the streets, and the reinforcement of the police by agents of the other public services. The Berliner Tageblatt declares insurance statistics reveal that there are now an average of 300 burglaries a day in Berlin. In Austria, according to the Neue Freie Presse, the number of crimes committed in the streets was twice as great in the first quarter of 1918 as in the same period of 1917. The crime problem of April 23 says the majority of these crimes are committed by boys and girls between 15 and 19, and that even school children are found among the bands of thieves which infest the streets and stations. In Vienna, as in Berlin, the police force is insufficient to restore order.

During the night local operations were undertaken by us successfully southwest of Merris and east of Diknebusch lake.

"HOLINESS" PREACHER MUST SERVE IN PRISON

(Associated Press.) Pensacola, Fla., June 13.—A jury in the case of Gustave Sigwalt, a "holiness" preacher, gave him two years in the Atlanta federal penitentiary last night for making anti-American and seditious remarks during a sermon. After his sentence, Sigwalt said: "Two years in prison will not be long because I have Jesus in my heart."
